REPORT OF SCHOOL BOARD.

Eleven schools have been maintained in the district the past year, and a twelfth school during the fall term. On March 14, last, George W. Fowler resigned from the school board. By his resignation the board was deprived of the services of one who has been intimately connected with the cause of education in Pembroke from his youth, and who has held the office of a member of the school board for many consecutive terms. We have tried to fill the vacancy but without success. We tendered the appointment to nearly a dozen different persons whom we deemed suitable, but in each case the appointment was refused, until finally we got discouraged and gave up attempting to fill it.

The board attempted last spring to form a supervisory district with Allenstown and Hooksett, but failed; Hooksett not being then ready to have a superintendent, and Allenstown being too well satisfied with its connection with the Penacook district to desire a change. The board then tried Bedford, but its school board, although desirous of a superintendent, finally decided to wait till next year.

But soon after the beginning of the fall term, the school board of Hooksett offered to join with us in forming a supervisory district. The offer was at once accepted, and the district organized, and Otis H. Adams of Leicester, Mass., was elected superintendent. Mr. Adams accepted the place, moved his family to Suncook, and is giving the district faithful, efficient and satisfactory service. We hope to continue the district for another year with the addition of Allenstown or Bedford. The condition and needs of the schools are fully set forth in the superintendent's report, which follows.

A class of eighteen graduated from the public schools the past year, and gave appropriate exercises in the academy hall, of these sixteen entered Pembroke Academy last fall. This is the largest class that has entered the academy from the public schools of Pembroke, since the district had contract relations with the academy. There will be a good sized class graduate this year.

The contract with Pembroke Academy expires this spring. The board recommends its renewal, and has put an article in the school meeting warrant for that purpose. The average attendance of Pembroke scholars there for the past year has been thirty-seven.

During the past year, the Pembroke Street and the Pembroke Hill schoolhouses have been thoroughly repaired, including new floors and wainscoting and new slate blackboards. And minor repairs have been made to the other schoolhouses. They are all now in good condition, and but very little will have to be expended in repairs for the coming year.

The board estimates the amount of money needed for the ensuing year as follows:

Interest on bonds,	$542.50
To pay bond,	1,000.00
High school tuition,	1,500.00
Text books and supplies,	350.00
Teachers,	3,800.00
Repairs,	150.00
Fuel,	400.00
Janitors,	300.00
Conveying scholars,	100.00
Salaries,	160.00
Superintendent,	300.00
Miscellaneous,	150.00
Working balance and allowance for error in estimates,	500.00
Total required for ensuing year,	<hr/> $9,252.50

The receipts of money for the ensuing year by the district, exclusive of money raised at school meeting, are estimated as follows:

Balance in the treasury,	$511.10
Amount of school money required by law,	4,177.50
Literary fund,	245.00
Dog money,	250.00
From tuition,	200.00
Total,	$5,383.60

Leaving, after raising the money to pay bond and interest on bonds, high school tuition, text books and supplies, and salaries, a balance of $316.40 to be raised under article 7 of the warrant.

PEMBROKE, N. N., March 2, 1911.

REPORT OF THE SUPERINTENDENT OF SCHOOLS.

To the School Board and Citizens of Pembroke:

I herewith submit my first annual report. My service in your schools has been short and it is impossible to look for definite results. I can give only a brief statement of conditions in the schools with my plans for the future, and progress to date.

Eleven schools have been in session during the entire fall and winter and an overflow room in Suncook for eight weeks in the fall.

A considerable amount of preliminary work was necessary at the opening of the school year before rapid and concrete work could be attempted. Classes had fallen down from the work of the respective grades, organization and coherency were lacking, the number of classes had increased in the outside schools to such an extent that teachers were overworked and possibly discouraged, books and material were lacking and plans for the year's work were indefinite. These conditions are stated without the slightest implied criticism of previous management but it is a well established and accepted fact that a system of schools requires constant, steady, close study and guidance which it is impossible for any one to give without giving his whole time and thought to the work.

The first need met was a careful study, with the teachers, of the individual pupil's requirements and the assignment of such work as was adapted to his needs. In a few schools entirely new programs were given to teachers reducing the number of classes and adjusting the time. The problem of getting a well balanced program when a teacher has a decided preference for some particular subject studied in the curriculum is always a serious one. Without careful adjustment all work is likely to suffer except the preferred one.

A complete inventory of all books and materials was taken in the fall, the books were stamped, and a record of all books belonging to the town is on file in the office of the superintendent with a record of all charged to the several schools. Each teacher also has a record of all books charged to her room which she is required to verify at least once a term. No other way has been found of keeping track of school property and holding any one responsible for its safe use. On the principle that it is better for books to be worn out than to become obsolete by standing on shelves, a system of exchange through the office of the superintendent is constantly going on so that little material is out of use for any considerable time except when there is a surplus stock on hand. Worn out, worthless and obsolete books were all taken to the central office and are being disposed of as fast as possible.

The Hamilton arithmetics, introduced by the school board last year, is proving to be a satisfactory series. The copies of the old Nichols which it replaced are being used for supplementary work. The change was a wise one. The Montgomery histories and the Tarr and McMurry geographies for grades four to eight are quite satisfactory and no change will be needed in either series for a considerable time. The language books in use is not well adapted to our schools. The inventory showed that eleven dictionaries constituted the entire supply for the town. With your coöperation, I hope to place at the opening of the spring term a dictionary in the hands of each scholar in the five upper grades. This is the most imperative need of the schools at the present time. The work in spelling has not been developed as we hope to develop it soon. Fresh methods have been introduced of teaching it but material is needed to supplement the amount on hand. This can be done with little expense. During the short time of my work in the schools the penmanship has not been emphasized, but this will receive early attention. I am prepared to recommend needed changes and adoptions for the bettering of the writing.

Fresh supplies of reading material is always in demand. It is the policy to supplement the regular work in the five higher grades with suitable reading material in literature, nature, geography and history. The teaching of reading in grades one to three is intended to first teach the mechanics of reading, second, to train the voice to clear, distinct, accurate and pleasing enunciation. Later comes to the well-taught child the acquaintance with the world's best literature. The most careful pains is being taken with children in the first and second grades and results, to date, are indicative of gratifying results where teachers have carefully followed the policy outlined at the beginning of the year.

Supplementary history readers are now found in all the grades from four to eight. A beginning has been made to supply nature readers and more of these will be furnished this spring.

I am convinced that teachers, parents and scholars would gladly concur in having music systematically taught in all our schools. The present efforts are far from satisfactory and, where it is attempted, it amounts simply to the learning of rote songs. Unless music can be properly taught, directed by an expert whose acquaintance with the latest and best methods is assured, then I would recommend no change. However, such teachers can be had whose work fills with enthusiasm every school so fortunate as to come under their direction. The sum of $250 to $300 per year would give the services of an expert and supply all needed material. I recommend your careful consideration of introducing music in the fall term.

The town has reason to be proud of its new school building at Suncook. It is large, ideally located, fairly well equipped, and will accommodate two hundred fifty pupils.

The building needs the services of a janitor who can give his whole time to its care. It should be his duty to be in the building during all recesses and at noon and to keep the entire building clean. Floors should be washed as often as needed, once a month or oftener, walls brushed, windows and wood work washed often, tops of the desks cleaned every week, the entire basement washed and kept as sweet as a home is kept. Keeping the schoolhouse clean, every whit, is simply a question of good health and hygienic decency. This cannot be done with the present allowance for janitor's salary, but the town can have only one opinion about the care of a school room where its children spend five days a week for thirty-five weeks of each year.

The Pembroke Academy, as the town high school, is primarily under the supervision of the trustees of the academy, but a cordial invitation was extended to the superintendent to visit, suggest, study and to report progress. This I have done at frequent intervals. While the academy is under the charge of its present able principal, any attempt to exercise supervisory powers would be absurd and prejudicial to the splendid spirit of coöperation now existing. Secondary school work appeals with particular force to one familiar with high schools. The work has a peculiar fascination all its own, therefore my visits, while in the line of duty, have been largely those of pleasure, profit and inspiration. I can heartily commend the academy to Pembroke citizens with boys and girls of high school age and to other towns without high school accommodations, as in every way worthy of their patronage. There are other questions of policy upon which I cannot touch at this time as consolidation of schools, the salaries due teachers, and truancy questions.

My reception from teachers has been, without exception, cordial and hearty. They have accepted suggestions, changes, criticisms, in the same friendly spirit it has always been given. It is axiomatic to say the good teacher always gets good results while the inferior teacher always gets inferior results, however favorable the conditions under which she teaches. No one is perfect, all are liable to fall into unpedagogical habits that interfere with and impede progress and so the real work of a superintendent is in his work strengthening, instructing and inspiring his teachers. Teachers must not only be told, but be taught and shown how not to waste time, how to correct school room habits that interfere with best results, how to study children, how and where to get material for class use, how, in short, to give their best to the school all the time. As the teacher is well educated and well trained, willing to coöperate, sensitive to the influence she exerts, by so much is she successful.

I thank the school board for hearty assistance and advice at all times. It could not have been more cordial.

Respectfully submitted,

O. H. ADAMS,

Superintendent.
